solucionariolenguayliteratura1bachilleratosantillanarar je fais ci que nous au si nous What do you think? Any ideas? A: When using an InputFile, which allows data to be loaded from stdin, each line is loaded as a single string, using newlines as separators. The line solucionariolenguayliteratura1bachilleratosantillanarar sur Ã§aÃ§al is a single string with 3 fields in it: solucionariolenguayliteratura1bachilleratosantillanarar sur Ã§aÃ§al Your loop is reading the full line as a single string, splitting it into the 3 elements. It then appends the first element to an output string, but doesn't include any of the other two. The fix is to split the line into the elements you want, and then add them to the output string. Something like this: //I'll put the array first, so you can see it's a single string string stringBuffer = ""; string[] stringArray = File.ReadAllLines(cmbFilename.Text);
